- 25X1 1. Propaganda items of primary importance planned by the East German Amt fuer Informationen (Information Office) (AFI) for July, August, and September 1952 include the reunification of Germany, the conclusion of a peace treaty, the ratification and execution of the contractual agreement, the European Army agreement, the Auerbach government, the RIAS and NWDR radio stations, defense of the Federal Republic and peace; vigilance against spies, saboteurs, and subversive elements, and social achievements in Eastern Germany. Items of minor importance include the activation of a National Army, defense against aggression, and a peace campaign spreading propaganda against sabotage and for government measures on the sonal border with emphasis on the statement that these measures would be abandoned the moment an agreement on free elections were made.
2. Strohbusch (fmu), formerly manager of the AFI now is manager of the Agitation Section of the Zentrale Kommittee of the SED. Armin Schulz and Gerda Kohlmey are other colleagues in this section.
